

SUMMARY

Theme: « Arbitration examination as an alternative method of conflict resolution»

Author: Nayryzov Hizir

Supervisor: Rumachik Irina Aleksandrovna
68 pages, 83 bibliographic titles

Key words: the mediation, The institute of conflict mediation in Russia, problems and development prospects of mediation, arbitration, alternative dispute resolution procedures.

Relevance of research topic consists in the fact that alternative ways of settlement of legal conflicts are becoming more common in the Russian Federation. Since the beginning of the XXI century these problems actualized in the research representatives of the Russian legal science, including the civil procedural and arbitration law. In the last decade at the state level the idea of the necessity of integration of mediation in the Russian legal system is formed in order to ensure access to justice and improving its quality. All this together will be one of the trends of modern Russian's judicial policy.

The importance and necessity of this study is understanding of mediation as an alternative method of dispute settlement in civil proceedings. This procedure contributes to the humanization of legal relations that arise in the sphere of civil jurisdiction. It should be noted that in Russian law the mediation is a relatively new phenomenon, which in its modern development of the first theoretical developments to the special legal regulation and it has about twenty years of existence.

So, the recognition of the priority of rights and freedoms of man and citizen by the Russian state are led to new approaches to understanding of implementation's methods of the constitutional principle of state (judicial) protection. There is a clear trend towards the simplification and facilitation of access to justice in the legal systems of all the world.

So, the research purpose is detection the benefits of arbitration court as an alternative method of conflict resolution.

To achieve the goal it is necessary to solve a number of objectives:

1. To consider the process of formation of the mediation's institute in Russia;
2. To reveal features of arbitration conflicts;
3. To explore the mediation procedure in arbitration;

4. To analyze the benefits of conflict resolution in the arbitration court.

The theoretical significance of the research is that in our study the definition of a number of concepts relating to the mediation procedure were clarified and justified, also were studied the legal framework of its operation and the problem of the formation of this procedure in Russia were identified. The practical significance lies in the fact that our conclusions on the basis of a comparative analysis of two different procedures, such as mediation and arbitration, could be used to improve the legal regulation of their activities.

The result of our research is analysis of the benefits of conflict resolution in the arbitration court. During for writing our final qualifying work we have seen that the further development of this procedure is possible under the following conditions, such as raising the level of legal culture of the population, the formation of good faith in society during the performance of their duties, the ability to come to a consensus on the resolution of disputes and finally the removal of social tensions both in labor relationships and in family relationships.