

SUMMARY

Subject of the thesis: The system of public cooperation with compatriots: Russia's foreign policy priorities

Author: Evgenia Zakharkina

Academic Adviser: Solovyova E.A, Political Science, Associate Professor

Organization: School of International Relations, Chair of International Relations, World Economy and International Law, Pyatigorsk State Linguistic University.

Relevance of the research issue: The process of institutionalization of diasporas, characteristic of the present stage of world historical development, confronts States with the task of forming the system of public interaction with their compatriots, are able to act as an important foreign policy tool for national interests. These circumstances make it necessary to develop effective mechanisms for the management of state regulation of interaction with Russian compatriots abroad, the task of scientific research and understanding which gives added urgency to our research.

The purpose of the work is a comprehensive analysis of the key mechanisms for implementing state policy in the sphere of interaction with compatriots and identifying promising direction to improve it in the context of the urgent tasks of Russian foreign policy.

Research objectives:

1. "Systematize the conceptual approaches to the definition of Russian compatriots abroad" and identify its key characteristics;
2. characterize the process of becoming a state policy in the sphere of interaction with compatriots and set guidelines and mechanisms for its implementation;
3. identify foreign policy resources "Russian world" as an instrument of state policy of the Russian Federation on the consolidation of Russian compatriots abroad;
4. identify trends and to identify promising directions for improving the system of public interaction with compatriots in the context of the urgent tasks of Russian foreign policy.

Scientific novelty is to systematize the main approaches to understanding the essence of the category of "national" social nature of Russian compatriots abroad; identify the historical and theoretical aspects of the formation and functioning of public interaction with Russian compatriots and definitions trends and future directions of its improvement in the context of the urgent tasks of Russian foreign policy.

Structure: consists of an introduction, two chapters, including a section 4, conclusions, bibliography of references, including 101 source, including 22 of them - in foreign languages, and applications 2 . Total amount of work is 73 pages of typescript.

Summary: In today's realities compatriots living abroad - is a huge potential in respect of which there must be a clearly defined active public position. Russian compatriots contribute to the formation of a new geopolitical image of modern

Russia, which is reflected in ensuring its national security. The formation of the "Russian world" as a universal and cross-border cultural space time. The promotes a high level of demand for Russian language, cultural and historical status of Russian culture in the world. At the same time, the main factors negatively affecting the process of consolidation of compatriots, are the low level of institutionalization of the Russian-speaking communities abroad, insufficient use of information and ideological instruments and uncertainty regulatory framework of political and legal activities of the Russian state in this direction.