The relevance of the research work is determined first of all by the extreme importance of the national security tasks, which accomplishment is a crucial aspect of any society vital activity maintenance. The national security being a scientific and a practical problem is defined by the institution condition which provide for an efficient activity to maintain optimal conditions of the society existence and development. The national security is a security connection with a nation. It is a system which includes social relations and public consciousness, institutional settings and their activity, supplying with the achievement of national interests in existing historical situation.

The research object is the public policy in ensuring national security.

The research subject is a Russian Federation state authority's policy in the sphere of national security.

Scientific-theoretical and practical importance is:

1. The data which were obtained in this research may be useful in the public authorities' activities, defining landmarks of contemporary foreign and domestic Russian policy.

2. The collected materials, results and scientific findings, which were obtained, are of interest to the general public.

3. The results of the study may be used in the course of teaching, as well as the material for the further development of the current problems in the history of Russian society, particularly in the preparation of educational materials.

Thus, considering national security state policy problem we came to a conclusion:

1. It is necessary to integrate a clear constructed interaction structure of the national security system, without duplicating functions, a policy should exclude the contradictions which at the moment in the range of the spheres, unfortunately, are present.

2. Legal base improvement in this sphere. State policy must rely on legal acts, which are relevant and perform their functions. Developmental lag of the legislative activity from current needs could be the source of the considerable problems.

3. Given the fact that Russian constitution declares Russia as a democratic state, we consider the necessity of control implementation for performance of the most and interested of all society decisions, law drafts and procedures.

4. It is necessary harmonically take into account state and social interests during national security policy optimization, excluding one of other sides domination.
