

SUMMARY

Subject of the thesis: « Modern foreign policy of Israel in the Middle East»

Author: Zoya Pashaeva

Academic Adviser: Gukasov A. V., Professor.

Organization: School of International Relations, Chair of International Relations, World Economy and International Law, Pyatigorsk State Linguistic University.

Relevance of the research issue: The analysis examined in the framework of the final qualification of the issues is important for the formation of an objective idea of the Middle East policy of Israel. The main foreign policy issue of the states in the region is the Arab-Israeli conflict, however, in the present conditions possible resolution of this conflict is complicated by the events of the "Arab Spring" has a significant impact on the dynamics of political processes in the region. For obvious reasons, Israel, possessing all the necessary attributes of a regional power center, at the present stage is off of the main integration processes taking place in the Middle East, as well as the processes of the formation of the Middle East regional security system. However, leaves no doubt of the fact that the formation of this system is impossible without taking into account the interests of Israel.

The purpose of the work is analysis of current trends in the foreign policy of Israel in the Middle East.

Research objectives:

- to define the role of national interests in foreign policy of modern states;
- explore the mechanisms for implementing the foreign policy of modern states;
- identify specific national interests of Israel in the Middle East; □ to analyze the main directions of the foreign policy of Israel in the Middle East.

Scientific novelty:

- specified category of "national interest" and revealed its role in the foreign policy of modern states in the context of globalization;
- systematic approaches to the study of the basic mechanisms for implementing the foreign policy of modern states;
- refined national interests of Israel in the Middle East region and determined the evolution of the Middle East policy of the state.

The structure of the work is due to the intended purpose and objectives, and consists of an introduction, two chapters, including at two paragraphs, conclusion and bibliography of literature. The total work is 68 pages of typescript.

Summary: In general, it should be noted that the unresolved Arab-Israel conflict and its key component of the problem - the Palestinian - in time is increasingly difficult prospects full integration of Israel into the regional system of international relations, narrows its room for maneuver in the space of the Middle East. On the background of the ongoing in the area of serious transformations of the Palestinian problem is particularly acute as the basis for anti-Israel policy.