Subject matter: Improvement of the system of municipal orders on the basis of the introduction of the principles of quality management.

Author: Safarova Leila Rolandievna.

Supervisor of studies: Brodski Andrei Lvovich, candidate of economic sciences, associate professor, chair of special management, economics and business law.

Customer organization: Financial Board of the administration of Stepnovski municipal district, Stavropol Krai.

Topicality of the research: is connected with the specific nature of the modern market economy and inadequacy of the municipal tools of management. Lack of the proper control over the municipal order, conclusion and execution of contracts breeds all kinds of abuses on behalf of the official functionaries. The violations by the municipal customers of the legislation in the field of purchases, particularly of the main principles of the Competitive placement of orders (openness, transparency, equal conditions and rights of the participants of the competition) does not only reduce the effectiveness of the municipal purchases but often discredits the very systems of the competitive placement of state orders.

Objective of the research: is the analysis of the current system of the municipal order, discovery of its positive and negative sides on the basis of the theoretical developments of the representatives of the economic science and the study of the relatively big empirical materials on the realization of the municipal order and also the development of the practical methods and recommendations on the optimization of the end financial results and the proposal of the alternative variants of the functioning of the municipal order by introducing the system of the municipal order.

Tasks:

- specification of the essence of the municipal order and normative and legal provision;
- examination of the ISO model, its main principles and requirements;

- analysis of the introduction of the principles of quality management into the system of municipal orders;
- conduct of the analysis of the system of the municipal orders on the example of the administration of Stepnovski municipal district, Stavropol Krai;
- discovering of the reasons of the emergence of problems in the system of the municipal order in the administration under study;
- development of the main directions of the solution of the problems in the system of the municipal order in the administration of Stepnovski municipal district.

Theoretical and practical significance of the research: is that the current practice of the municipal orders has its systemic faults, whose elimination will provide a greater satisfaction of the requirements of the population and budgetary organizations with the rational use of the budgetary means. The theoretical significance of the work is the process-based approach to the study of the municipal orders as a system of economic relations, as an institute and as a system of management enabling one to have a broader view of the essence of the municipal order.

Results of the research:

- the system of the municipal order in the administration is practically non-existent;
- the process of the formation, placement and execution of the municipal order is decentralized;
- lack of control over the quality of holding municipal orders;

Recommendations:

1. the creation of special structural departments in charge of the organization of the work on municipal order, to be subordinated directly to the head of the administration and work and his control;
2. to improve the normative and legal basis of the municipal order which is the required condition of the further development of the municipal order.;
