

SUMMARY

Subject of the thesis: interaction of Russia and the USA in a context of evolution of world political system.

Author: Inna Olishenko

Academic Adviser: Gukasov A. V., Assistant Professor, PhD, Political Science

Organization: School of International Relations, Chair of International Relations, World Economy and International Law, Pyatigorsk State Linguistic University.

Relevance of this subject is that forming of constructive and productive dialogue between Russia and the USA is a priority task for both countries. Creation of such dialogue conducts to increase of level of the mutual trust which is equitable to interests of both countries and promotes strengthening of strategic stability in the world.

The purpose of the work is the analysis of evolution of the bilateral relations of Russia and the USA at the present stage.

Research objectives:

- to investigate essence and a configuration of modern world political system;
- to reveal a place of Russia and the USA in modern architecture of the international relations;
- to analyse a state and problems of the bilateral relations of Russia and the USA;
- to define prospects of development of relationship of Russia and the USA.

Scientific novelty of research consists that value of the bilateral Russian-American relations as a condition of strengthening of strategic stability in the world is revealed, and also prospects of development of relationship of Russia and the USA within world political system are analysed.

Structure: the two chapters, containing two paragraphs, the conclusion and a 72-reference bibliography (sixteen of which are in foreign languages). The total volume is 61 pages.

Summary: Realization of the foreign policy strategy by Russia assumes constructive dialogue with leading world powers, including with the USA. But thus for foreign policy of Russia upholding of own national interests and strengthening of the positions in world political arena will be priority. However tendency of the USA to political domination can complicate this option of development of the relations. The main line of the modern global world is the situation which the states rivals are compelled to cooperate with each other at the solution of such significant problems as control over non-proliferation of the nuclear weapon and fight against the international terrorism. In these areas, in particular, for Russia and the USA, there are prospects for long-term cooperation. The modern world in which the Russian-American relations develop, puts global problems before the countries. Their decision demands cooperation between the states as on their decision depend not only prospects of the bilateral relations of Russia and the USA, but also a condition of other participants of world political process, as well as a configuration of world political system.