

Institute / Higher School: Law Institute

Chair: Chair of Constitutional and Municipal Law

Level of study: bachelor's degree

Profile: 40.03.01 - Jurisprudence (state and legal profile)

Year: 2017

Subject matter: The constitutional right of citizens on information in the Russian Federation

Author: Akhmedzade Aytach Zakhirovna

Supervisor: Tkhabisimova L. A., PhD., Professor of the Constitutional and Municipal Law Chair

The supervising organization: Pyatigorsk State University

The topicality of the research. The constitution of the Russian Federation focuses that values which on the one hand divide generation of citizens who voted for it and on the other hand, this values are attractive to future generations, as helps them to develop and to realize their creative potential. Nowadays, in opinion of many scientists, we live in informational society in which the access to informational recourses have become significant and information itself have become a product of social production.

The aim of the research is to research the legal regulation of realization of the constitutional right of citizens on information.

Objectives:

- to research the system of constitutional guarantees of freedom of information - to explore normative base of realization of citizens' right on access to legal information;
- to consider guarantees of citizens' right on access to information about public authorities' activity;
- to point out the problems of realization of the right on information and the ways of their resolution.

The theoretical and practical value of the research can be used in law-making activity in development of the legislative base of the legal status of the personality.

The practical value of the research is that the results can be used in a practical application of research's results.

The results obtained: In a result of analysis of the legislation we can make a conclusion that the right on information is a complex of norms, guarded by public authorities, which enshrines the principle of people's equality, sets the priority of human freedom, guards human freedom in the sphere of production and transmission of information.

Recommendations: The problem of access to information on public authority's activity is very important for the modern democratic society, in which bearers of sovereignty are its citizens.

The main principals of realization of access to information concerning of public authorities' and local governments activity should be:

- openness and accessibility of information about public authorities' and local government's activity;
- timeliness and reliability of information about the public authorities' and local government's activity;
- freedom of search, receive and transmit of information about the public authorities' and local government's activity.