Subject matter: Social security of the population and its realization at the municipal level (on the example of health resort Kislovodsk).

Author: Kagiya Alina Khalisovna

Supervisor of studies: Eriomina O.S., candidate of history, associate professor, chair of creative and innovative management and law.

Customer organization: Kislovodsk Administration.

Topicality of the research: Today the issues related to the social security of the population are the most pressing for the state. Social security of the population has been topical in all times despite the changing content of its mechanisms depending on the political system, level of the economic development, organization of work and the traditions of the countries. So, social security of population has become one of the most important elements of the social policy of any country.

In the course of time the developed countries had formed the models of social security, characterized by the specific features of the mode of life of a certain country. In the Russian Federation the model as such does not exist and the forms of social security that have survived after the collapse of the USSR not only disregard the interests of the citizens in the already established market economy in the RF but, by all accounts, are ineffective. For the last two decades the living standards of the major part of the population have considerably fallen, and some citizens, have even found themselves living below the poverty line. Today the problems of the increase in the subsistence minimum, rise in the minimal wages, rise in the importance of social guarantees and others are rather acute and are at the top of the social agenda.

The need for the improvement in the mechanisms of the social security of the Russian population raises no doubts, the current conditions demand the revision of a considerable part of social guarantees on behalf of the state, development of new models and mechanisms.

The practice of management of the system of social security of the population needs well-grounded approaches to the development and adoption of the new approaches to the increase in the effectiveness of the industry management including the one at the municipal level in accordance with the socio-economic development of the society.

Objective of the research: is the determination of the directions of improvement in the practice of the realization of the measures of the social security of population at the municipal level on the basis of a complex analysis in its theoretical and applied aspects.

Tasks of the research:

- to consider the notion and essence of the social security of population;
- to study the formation of the mechanisms of the social security of population;
- to explore the system of the social security of the population in modern Russia;
- to describe Kislovodsk Administration for work and social security of the population as the main subject of the realization of measures of the social security of the population at the municipal level;
- to carry out the analysis of the practice of the realization of the social security of the population at the municipal level;
- to determine the key directions of the improvement in the system of the social security of Kislovodsk population.

Theoretical and practical significance: The conceptual statements of the research develop the theoretical ideas of the essence of the system of social security of population. Besides, the conclusions and practical recommendations elaborated in the course of the research can be used both in the work of Kislovodsk local government organs, and in other organs of municipal power in the realization of measures of the social security of population.

Result: Health-resort Kislovodsk is consistently realizing certain measures which enables it to prevent the deterioration of the socio-economic conditions of the inhabitants. At the same time the results achieved and the situation that has taken shape condition the need for the ensuring of the effective functioning of the sphere of social security of Kislovodsk inhabitants. The solution of this problem is closely connected with the increase in the quality of the provision of measures of social support.

Recommendations: In order to improve the quality of the provision of measures of social support of the population we see it essential to introduce the automated information system “Target social support” into the work of Kislovodsk Administration for work and social security of the population.

The program system “Target social support” is oriented at the work of the organs and organizations of social security of the population. This is targeted at the provision of specialists and leaders with the information technology to solve the following tasks: the creation of the mechanisms of the effective distribution of the tight budget; prioritization in the social policy of the territorial formation; prediction of the resources in kind and cash for rendering social support; ensuring of the registration of finances along the directions of financing; preparation of various documents for rendering target social support.
