

SUMMARY

Theme: Counteraction to terrorism as to the conflictogenic factor of the political relations in modern Russia.

The author of the paper is Komissarova K.Y.

Scientific adviser: Astvatsaturova M. A., doctor of political sciences.

Organization: The Institute of International Relationships; conflictologies, public relations and journalism, Pyatigorsk State Linguistic University.

The research currency: Relevance theme of research of terrorism in system "of konfliktologicheskoy knowledge is caused by that terrorism - the constant satellite of mankind which is among the most dangerous and hardly predicted phenomena of the present getting more and more various forms and menacing scales.

Prevention and counteraction to terrorism as to a call, risk are actual for modern Russia as terrorist groups which threaten the sovereignty and territorial integrity of the country operate on its territory, first of all, in the North Caucasus, undermine stability of political system of North Caucasian community, seek to paralyze actions of the authorities. Owing to it terrorist manifestations in North Caucasus federal district are essential determinants and factors conflictogenic the relations that threatens tendencies of stable development of the region.

The research purpose: consists in generalization of measures and counteraction methods to terrorism in modern Russia.

The research goals: Achievement set "the purpose assumes the solution of the following tasks from which the most essential in our opinion are:

1. to study modern Russian standard and legal base of counteraction to terrorism;
2. to consider the state and public structures of the Russian Federation counteracting terrorism;
3. to generalize system of anti-terrorist activity in North Caucasus federal district;
4. to define effective measures of counteraction to terrorism in a concrete act of terrorism on the example of events to Beslan the Republics Northern Ossetia-Alania on September 1-3, 2004.

The research work structure: work consists of the introduction, two heads (six paragraphs), the conclusion and a bibliography.

Abstract: Thus, modern terrorism as a difficult political phenomenon, changing the forms, types, means and scales, but, without changing essence, represents a scientific and practical problem which doesn't lose the relevance and demands close attention from experts, including conflictologists.