SUMMARY

Theme: The role of the Jewish diaspora in foreign politics of the United States of America.

Author: Cherkesova M.K.

Scientific adviser: Solovieva E.A., associate professor of the international relations, international economy and international law department.

Organization: The Institute of International Relationships; the international relations, international economy and international law department; Pyatigorsk State Linguistic University.

The relevance of the research work is buttressed but the fact that in the modern interdependent world diasporas headily become in such subject of right and politics, which is impossible to be mindless of, as they can have a strong influence on the host state and on the state of Exodus. It is for this reason that diasporas become the object of increased social and political attention, which by turn updates the aim of deeper and more objective research of the role of diasporas in the foreign affairs and foreign politics of the modern states.

The research purpose is complex analysis of basic instruments and mechanisms of influence of the Jewish diaspora on the foreign politics of the USA.

The research goals:
1. to systematize the main approaches to understanding the diaspora as a category of modern political science;
2. to identify the key functions of diaspora as a foreign policy instrument;
3. to study the formation of political views of American Jews by the method of analysis of the origin of the Jewish diaspora in the USA and define the main forms of its participation in the American political life;
4. to present the analysis of the key ways, tendencies and perspectives of the influence of the Israel lobby on the foreign politics of the USA.

Scientific novelty of the research is systematization of main approaches to the understanding of diaspora, which exist in Russian and foreign science, and identification of its essential characteristics as an instrument of the foreign politics of the state. The main strategies, problems and priorities of the modern diaspora politics of the USA towards the Jewish diaspora are also clarified in the research and the potential possibilities of its usage in the example of optimization of the cooperation between Russia and Israel are defined.

The research work structure is buttressed by the purpose, goals and internal logic of the research and consists of 2 chapters with 2 clauses in each, the conclusion and references with 98 resources (69 of which are in foreign languages). Total volume of the research work is 65 pages.

Summary: High social and political activity of the ethnic diasporas is seen in their host states. However not many of the modern states use diaspora as a foreign politics instrument which is able to appear as an effective mechanism of lobbying the national interests. In this connection the researches of the possible directions, forms and mechanisms of participation of diaspora in the social and political life of the country and in its foreign politics make our research more actual.

The example of the most developed cooperation system between states by the foreign politics resource of diaspora are the USA and Israel, in the interaction of which the Jewish diaspora as a significant actor of American political life in many issues often appears the influence mechanism on the foreign politics processes.