

SUMMARY

Research subject: The Asia-Pacific region in foreign policy of China

Author: Belikova Anastasia Viktorovna

Academic Adviser: Parastatov S. V., Assistant Professor, PhD, Political Science

Organization: School of International Relations, Chair of International Relations, World Economy and International Law, Pyatigorsk State Linguistic University.

Relevance of the research issue: The Asia-Pacific region is the most dynamically developing region of the world in which the largest states of the world - the USA, China, Russia and Japan are located. Big differentiation between the countries on economic and social indicators, and also on political and culturological factors was and remains a key factor on the way of integration tendencies in such changeable region as the Asia-Pacific region.

The special attention to the Asia-Pacific region is explained by a number of important factors. First, Asia-Pacific region it, first of all, quite advantageous geopolitical and geostrategic position. Among other things, in the territory of the region more than 40% of the population of all planet live. In the Asia-Pacific region the GDP high level is developed, more than 50% of total amount of a world goods turnover are performed. To the countries which are in the territory of the Asia-Pacific region the highest rates of economic growth are characteristic.

One of characteristic geostrategic specifics of the Asia-Pacific region is that here the considerable nuclear missile capacity of the Russian Federation, the United States of America and China is fixed. Still, it is possible to add to it orientation to increases in military capacity of the countries of Southeast part of the Asia-Pacific region which constantly allocate from 5 to 20% of the government budget for military expenses. The goods turnover of the Asia-Pacific region weapon occupies the second, after Middle Eastern, the place in the world. The military and political situation in the Asia-Pacific region is characterized by high dynamism of political and economic movements.

As for China, within general process of globalization the regional cut - the Asia-Pacific region moves to the forefront. The People's Republic of China actively gains steam in the Asia-Pacific region, developing in various integration formats. China needs presence in this region thanks to which it will be able not only to provide the dominating role in the Asia-Pacific region, but also to apply for world leadership. Growth of power of China together with the going deep integration processes within the region - one of the determining elements of forming of new world very tectonics. It influences all system of the international relations.

Research purpose - to consider, analyse and determine the place and a role of the Asia-Pacific region in modern foreign policy of China.

Research problems:

- to research factors and tendencies of regionalization in the modern world;
- to study history of formation of the Asia-Pacific region;

- to determine a Asia-Pacific region role in modern international processes;
- to consider influence of process of regionalization on forming of foreign policy of China;
- to determine the place and a role of the Asia-Pacific region in foreign policy of China;
- to analyse features and prospects of activities of China in the Asia-Pacific region.

Scientific novelty of research:

- the importance of the Asia-Pacific region in modern international processes in the light of recently created international trade and economic organization "Transpacific Partnership" is revealed;
- it is proved that forming of sustained common interests of the countries of the region and first of all People's Republic of China is the reliable mechanism of safety the Asia-Pacific region.

Structure: the introduction, two chapters consisting of 6 paragraphs, the conclusion and the bibliography of the used literature numbering 81 sources (17 of which in foreign languages). The total amount of work constitutes 85 pages of the typewritten text.

Summary: Now China represents a certain power which holds a dominant position in the Asia-Pacific region, in this regard it is obvious that has towered his aspiration to the status of the world power. Analyzing forecasts of experts, we see that after modern world crisis comes to the end, any more not the United States of America, namely China will be able to apply for a role of world predominant force.

It is at the moment heavy to present the future of the Asia-Pacific region without assignment to Beijing of an escalating role. The Asia-Pacific region, with the activity of the People's Republic of China growing here, is the territory of self-affirmation of Beijing. Still this region, acts in a role of the power of scale of all Eurasia, it is, to some extent, an exit for a framework of traditional influence, and also the territory with rather high potential for growth.

The People's Republic of China actively gains steam in the Asia-Pacific region, developing in various integration formats. China needs presence in this region thanks to which he will be able not only to provide the dominating role in the Asia-Pacific region, but also to apply for world leadership. Growth of power of China together with the going deep integration processes within the region - one of the defining elements of formation of new world very tectonics. He influences all system of the international relations.