SUMMARY

Subject matter: Interpersonal dialogue as a variant of intercultural communications

Author: Khamitsevich Irina Vladimirovna

Supervisor: candidate of pedagogical science of Chair of Intercultural communications, linguadidactis, pedagogical technologies of training and education, Phd of pedagogics Krasnozhonova E.S

The supervising organization: Pyatigorsk State Linguistic University

The relevance of the study: consists in research of a phenomenon of interpersonal dialogue as a component of intercultural communications, its role in verbal and nonverbal intercultural dialogue is specified, the various mechanisms providing success of interpersonal communications in an intercultural context are considered. The given theme is extremely actual nowadays, because many researches of various sciences are devoted to this topic, a lot of dissertations are written, but the fact is that some questions of intercultural aspect are not researched, therefore there was a necessity of the given research for modern conditions of cross-cultural communication.

The aim of the research is to work out the recommendations for experts in intercultural communications and get communicative skills in everyday intercultural communication including individual communicative specialties

Objectives:
1. to analyse the bibliographic data devoted to interpersonal dialogue with the purpose of revealing of theoretical bases of interpersonal dialogue and their cores of directions in intercultural communications;
2. to study psychological and linguadidactical bases of interpersonal communication to describe the specialties of such kind of communication in correlation with all extralinguistic factors of communicative situations;
3. to reveal the most effective both productive forms and methods of mastering by the intercultural competence on the basis of interpersonal dialogue; to describe interpersonal dialogue in intercultural context;
4. to compare different pictures of the world in different linguacultures and the difficulties arising in the course of interpersonal communications between representatives of different cultures and to make the conclusion about conformity of pictures of the world of different speakers as conditions of success of intercultural interpersonal dialogue.

The theoretical and the practical value of the research is the analysis of the basic modern approaches during the interpersonal communications which are an integral part of intercultural communications; concepts of interpersonal communications, interpersonal compatibility, intercultural competence are defined, and the practical importance of research consists in working out of recommendations for experts in intercultural communications and working out the crosscultural training «the Tolerance Index». The offered recommendations give the chance to avoid the difficulties arising in the course of interpersonal communications between representatives of different cultures and can be used in the further work as experts in intercultural communications at negotiating or in any other activity connected with dialogue speaking another language of representatives of different linguacultural communities.

The results obtained: include working out of recommendations for experts in intercultural communications on the basis of various modern approaches as in our opinion of their various use is effective at formation of modern interpersonal communications and working out of crosscultural training «a Tolerance Index».

Recommendations:
Offered recommendations give the chance to avoid the difficulties arising in the course of interpersonal communications between representatives of different cultures and can be used in the further work as experts of intercultural communications at negotiating or in any other activity connected with dialogue speaking another language of representatives different cultures/