Topicality of the research is determined by the necessity to implement different tools of public-private partnership which promote the concentration of significant resources of public authorities, businesses and population in order to develop the tourism industry. Being one of the major profitable industries in economically developed countries, tourism can become a stimulus to the economic development in Russia and increase the income of all economic actors. Simultaneously with producing economic benefits tourism industry is able to provide services aimed at improving the cultural level of the citizens of Russia, as well as to preserve the health of the population.

Objective of the research is to create practical recommendations for developing public-private partnership in tourism sphere in the Republic of Ingushetia based on detailed research of its different instruments.

To fulfill the objective of the final qualification paper, the following tasks were set:

- to explore the essence of public-private partnership, highlighting its characteristics and basic elements;
- to describe the current state of public-private partnership and reveal peculiarities of its application in the field of tourism;
- to conduct a study of foreign experience of public-private partnership in the field of tourism;
- to consider the organizational and legal aspects of public-private partnership functioning in the Republic of Ingushetia;
- to analyze the main trends and opportunities of public-private partnership in the sphere of tourism of the Republic of Ingushetia;
- to develop recommendations for the development of tools of public-private partnership in the Republic of Ingushetia.

Theoretical significance consists in generalization of theoretical works connected with the necessity and possibility of implementing public-private partnership instruments in tourism sphere in the Russian Federation in general and in the Republic of Ingushetia in particular. In addition, a systems approach has been applied to the analysis of using different instruments of public-private partnership in tourism sphere.

Practical significance is determined by the submitted recommendations on how to implement the elements of public-private partnership in tourism sphere of the Republic of Ingushetia. These proposals may be used by the Committee on Tourism of the Republic of Ingushetia in the process of improving the design and implementing targeted programs to promote tourism in the Republic of Ingushetia.

Resultsoftheresearch:

At present, public-private partnership represents a special system of partnership relations. The state and businesses function as the subjects of this system. The objects are the state (municipal) property, exclusive activities of the state (municipality), natural resources, activities within the competence of the state, territorial zones favorable for this kind of economic activity.

The analysis of the current state of tourism development has shown that the state policy in the sphere of tourism of the Republic of Ingushetia is based on the state policy of the Russian Federation, it is the logical continuation of current trends and it is adapted to the local peculiarities of the territory. The fundamental documents of tourist activities are such regulations as: The Strategy for Development of the North Caucasus Federal District till 2025, the federal target program "Development of domestic and inbound tourism in the Russian Federation (2011 - 2018), the Federal Law "On special economic zones in the North Caucasus Federal District", the concept of developing mountain tourist complexes in the Republic of Ingushetia, the Republic of Ingushetia state program "Development of tourism" for the period 2014-2016 gg.

Recommendations:

- it is necessary to ensure the formation of new, yet lacking conditions for the development of public-private partnership in the tourism industry such as: technical and organizational conditions for receiving information, conditions for inventory, assessment and systematization of the resource base, availability of a variety of instruments to satisfy the interests of participants, availability of financial instruments that provide financial flow to funds for projects of public-private partnership in the field of tourism.

- In our opinion, the local population should become an active participant in public-private partnership in the Republic of Ingushetia. The population should be able to interact with the government and business by making their preferences, initiating public procurement projects, making their own proposals through associations, participating in creation and discussion of the programs for tourism development in the republic.
