ABSTRACT

Subject matter: Lexical-grammatical characteristics of indirect speech (based on the English language).

Author: Ionov Timur, 4th year external student, group 403, Institute of Translatology and Multilanguage Studies.

Supervisor of the project: L.V. Pravikova, PHD, professor of the Chair of Western European Languages and Cultures Dept.

Information about the sponsor organization: Pyatigorsk State University; 9 Kalinin St., Pyatigorsk, Stavropol krai.

Topicality of the research lies in a great value of indirect speech concept for the english linguistic culture. Topicality is also determined by the fact of insufficient state of knowledge of such language image fragment of the world, its characteristics in English and by growing interest for researches of lexical-grammatical characteristics of indirect speech in English.

Tasks of the research: the objectives are
- to determine the theoretical platform of the research
- to find and analyze the linguistic resource of lexical-grammatical utterance of indirect speech characteristics in English.
- to characterize systematically the lexical-grammatical and structurally-semantic characteristics of indirect speech in English.

Theoretical significance of the work consists in analyzing the examples bloc.

Practical significance of the study lies in the possibility of applying its results to lectures, seminars and writing qualification works.

Results of the research:
This graduation qualification paper is devoted to indirect speech and its characteristics. The work deals with lexical-semantic, structural-semantic and structural-grammatical analysis of the examples draw upon the British National Corpus.
The author succeeded in fulfilling all the tasks set in the Introduction of the Research Paper.